“ Carlos, my beautiful angel now. What can I say. The lost of you broke my heart in two. You took a huge piece of my heart with you. We talk that night. I see you Wednesday and the last thing you said to me is " will you marry me?" You have ask me that over over again you loved hearing me say yes. Our love is undying. Although we did not get to say "I DO" to eachother. Nothing will change that I am for all that matters your wife. People can try to take that away from me but I will always have the memory of our kisses, hugs, long talks and laughter. We may not have been perfect but when to soul collide nothing can part that. You were my best friend for 8 wonderful years, and my love, life and boyfriend for 7 years. I will never forget the first time you said you loved me. Every time I seen you i always got butterflies. No one in this world or heaven can make me smile like you do. I am lost in this world without you. Their is a huge void in my life. I am no longer complete. But as in life we always found a way to one another and we will continue to find eachother. I am yours forever and always. Thank you for always giving me hope and peace. I love you Carlos Ochoa.
