“ I find myself thinking of you in the hardest of times, this year being one of the hardest thus far. Despite everything I'm facing, I'm still confident that you're there, watching over me, planning for everything to be okay. I miss you during these times the most, and wish wish wish I could just have a hug to know that everything is okay...that's what I miss the most to be honest. If I could wish for anything in this world, it would be to see you again. I don't know all the answers right now, and I know you probably do, like you always have. I guess what I'm hoping for is just a sign that everything is okay. I loved then, love you now, and will forever love you..fly high my angel, you're forever in my heart.

“ It's been close to 6 years this Aug. 25th, and you still somehow know how to get me through the things that are thrown at me on a day to day basis. So much has happened since you've been gone, but I still feel as though you've had a controlling hand in all of it, and I feel it from time to time. I'm lucky to have an angel like you still showing me how to move forward, go forward, but most importantly think forward. There's not a June that goes by where you're all I think about day-to-day. This post isn't written in tears or sadness...but hope that you'll stay with me to see this all the way through. I love you like family dinners on the weekends, I love you like going to the store to get lotto tickets everyday, I love you like I've always loved you grandma. I know you're in a better place, and I know the voice in my head is you, and for that I'm eternally grateful. I love you grandma.
