“ My bro, what a great pleasure with having you on this earth as long as it lasted goodbyes are never easy .□ we all have a date to enter but an unknown date to leave this earth. When your condition begin, I remember going in there and rubbing your feet putting lotion on your dry skin and tickling your toes. We would laugh about it. We had great times even when my hands were hurting. I still would rub those feet 🌀The great moments, the laughs and the tears we cried, the memories, the photos, the love, the joy the bitter moments we shared. In a spur of days and weeks I remember the day I got the call from you about 3 AM and you said God was calling you and that your alarm cook was going off anytime soon and you were ready to leave this earth. We prayed. I couldn't rush to go visit due to visiting hours but the next morning I was there when you woke up. and then I got the call that your time was running out. Seemed like almost yesterday. I share this with all we love you and I know in the short time you met Miguel you said he the man for you you'd have a great bond you even let him cut your hair and eat his meals he cooked for you he enjoyed the moments even if the time was short he would take you for walks we love you and we will all miss you with the great joy we shared you . Now enjoy your time with God because he has called you home. ❤️❤️love always Carmen & Miguel

Mi hermano, qué gran placer tenerte en esta tierra mientras dure, las despedidas nunca son fáciles. □ todos tenemos una fecha para entrar, pero una fecha desconocida para salir de esta tierra. Cuando tu condición comienza, recuerdo entrar allí y frotarte los pies, poner loción en la piel seca y hacerte cosquillas en los dedos de los pies. Nos reíríamos de ello. Lo pasamos muy bien incluso cuando me dolían las manos. Todavía frotaría esos pies 🙌 Los grandes momentos, las risas y las lágrimas que lloramos, los recuerdos, las fotos, el amor, la alegría, los momentos amargos que compartimos. En un impulso de días y semanas, recuerdo el día en que recibí la llamada tuya alrededor de las 3 de la mañana y dijiste que Dios te estaba llamando y que tu alarma de cocinero sonaba pronto y que estabas listo para dejar esta tierra. Oramos. No podía apresurarme a ir de visita debido a las horas de visita, pero a la mañana siguiente estaba allí cuando te despertaste. Y luego recibí la llamada de que se te estaba acabando el tiempo. Parecía casi ayer. Comparto esto con todos, te amamos y sé que en el poco tiempo que conociste a Miguel dijiste que era el hombre para ti, tendrías un gran vínculo, incluso dejaste que te cortara el pelo y comiera sus comidas, cocinó para ti, disfrutó de los momentos, incluso si el tiempo era corto, te llevaría a pasear, te amamos y todos te extrañaremos con la gran alegría que compartimos contigo. Ahora disfruta de tu tiempo con Dios porque te ha llamado a casa.❤️❤️amor siempre Carmen y Miguel

“ My grandfather, Manuel Morales, was loud, full of life, and the biggest jokester in the room. If you knew him, I'm sure he put a smile on your face. He had a way of bringing joy wherever he went, and you could always count on him for a story, a joke, or a clever remark that made everyone smile.

But beyond the laughter and the lively spirit, there was a man with a powerful testimony, a man who turned his life over to God. A true transformation. He became a man of deep faith, a man who prayed, praised, and carried himself with a peace that only comes from above.

He believed in me with all his heart. He truly thought I could fix anything...

I'll always remember his voice, his laughter, his teasing, and his faith. He was genuine and full of love. I thank God for the time we shared and the legacy he leaves behind.

I love you, papi. Heaven just got a little louder and a lot more joyful ;)
